LOOKS LIKE LANDON

In another week the Republican national convention will no doubt have named its candidate and have its platform ready for the voters appraisal. A few days later the Democrats will assemble in Philadelphia and renominate the Roosevelt, Garner ticket and given formal blessings to the New Deal. Then the BIG SHOW will be in full swing. All the thrills and fanfare of a national presidential campaign will entertain the people until the November election.

On the eve of the Republican convention, it looks like Governor Alf Landon, of Kansas will be the G.O.P. standard bearer. Booms for Senator Borah, Frank Knox and others haven't gotten anywhere. The band wagon is loading up. The Republicans are looking towards Kansas.

From this distance, we can have nothing but sympathy for "Alf." Shrewd Republicans realize that F. D. R. can't be defeated in 1936. Poor Alf is to be sacrified. The most his party hopes for is to gain a few seats in congress. Even if Alf was elected by a miracle, his party couldn't get anywhere since the Democrats will be in control of congress. Woe to any president who controls only a minority in congress.

BETTER TALK IT OVER

Local farmers have until June 6 to turn in work sheets and join in the new soil conservation program which replaces the AAA. Many are already lined up. We urge farmers to talk over the program with the county agent or members of the committee at once. Have the new program explained to you first, then take your choice. It has been said that the payments will be enough to pay the average farmers taxes. That isn't to be passed by lightly. It is further claimed that the dry spring will curtail acreage anyway so why not get the benefit from this reduction. Finally, the new soil program has definite merits as a builder for your farm land. It is important that the farmers who are still out of the program act quickly. We recommend the program heartily and urge that you at least "talk it over" with the committee before it is too late.

SHOWING THE COST

Gouverneur Morris, the famous writer, has made a very pertinent suggestion. He suggests that every thing sold bore a label showing the actual value of the article and the taxes on it. He adds:

"It would cost the manufacturer something and the merchant something to get at the exact figures, but to change the wording of labels need not be expensive. I picture in a grocery store shelves of cans of soup, with one comprehensive announcement:

"Soups 14 cents a can. The value of the soup is only 9 cents. The extra 5 cents goes to pay the salary of a bureaucrat.'"

This paper suggests that not too many of said labels be printed for in a year or two the tax will be double, and it won't go to bureaucrats, but to pay interest to the bankers who aided and egged on Uncle Sam's bankruptcy.

CODE REVISION

It is obvious that the decision of the circuit court here Monday that town ordinances are void, unless properly advertised, makes it of the utmost importance that the entire set of ordinances be assembled and inspected and made legal. This is something that should not be put off. The council should have the minutes gone over and all ordinances collected, and repassed and made valid. Until that is done there is a serious question as to whether any town ordinances passed in recent years will stand a court test.

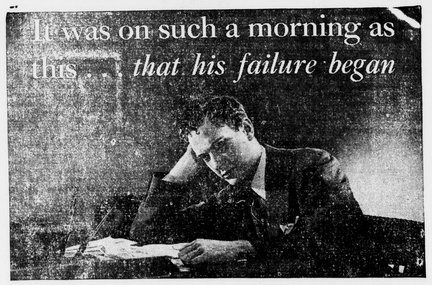
THINK! HAVE MONEY! THE BANK OF APPOMATTOX THINK! HAVE MONEY!



He wanted to run away and hide. He wanted to go and sleep somewhere. His head ached terribly, and his fingers trembled.

Dark circles haloed his eyes which seemed to have sunken back beyond their normal depth.

He had spent a great deal of money on cocktails, and that, too, bothered him.

He could sense, with every breath, the stale alcoholic residue of the night before.

He lost his courage. His will seemed to desert him. There were so many things he had to do that day, and that meant so much to him.

But he wanted to run away and hide. Something inside him screamed for repose—cried out to him to rest. But he had no will left to fight it off.

Work to be done! Work to be done! But still he wanted to go and hide. He felt a surge of shame sweep over him. He sensed that others must notice how he felt.

No, he couldn't face those people today. He would go away and rest. Tomorrow would take care of the things that had to be done.

And so, it was on such a day as this that his failure began.
